Answer the Alarm!

Norway People Should Not Delay

If your kidneys are inflamed,
Don't stand around and do nothing.
Like a fire it will soon be beyond control.

You will get the alarm in time—
Backache, or dizziness or disorders of the urine.

Heed the warning.
Give your kidneys a rest by living more carefully.

Use Doan's Kidney Pills to help stamp out the cause.

Profit by Norway woman's experience.
Mrs. Mary Gammon, 14 Beal St., says:

"I have kept Doan's Kidney Pills on hand for years, in fact, ever since I first took them nearly ten years ago. The symptoms I noticed at that time indicated kidney complaint. There was a dull, heavy ache across the small of back and often attacks of dizziness came over me.

Doan's Kidney Pills, which I got from Frank Kimball's Drug Store, proved fine in relieving me of these troubles. I take Doan's off and on now and couldn't wish for anything better to keep my kidneys in good condition.

Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mrs. Gammon had.

LITTLE KINDNESSES

You gave on the way a pleasant smile
And thought no more about it;
It cheered a heart that was sad and the while
That might have been wrecked without you;
And so for the smile and its fruitage fair
You reap a crown of glory—somehow.

You spoke one day a cheering word,
And passed to other duties;
It warmed a heart, new promise stirred,
And painted a life with beauty;
And so for the word and its silent prayer
You'll reap a palm some time—somehow.

You lent a hand to a fallen one,
A lift in kindness given;
It saved a soul when help was none,
And won a heart for heaven;
And so for the help you proffered there
You'll reap a joy some time—somehow.

Catarhal Deafness Cannot Be Cured by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure catarrhal deafness, and that is by a constitutional remedy. Catarrhal Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result. It is the inflammation can be reduced and this tube restored to normal condition, hearing will be restored. Many cases of deafness are caused by catarrh, which is an inflamed condition of the mucous surface of the Eustachian Tube. Catarrh Medicine acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Catarrhal Deafness that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Medicine. Circulars free. All Druggists, 75c.

Clothing Prices Will ADVANCE

The unprecedented price increases in both raw material and labor which have taken place since our stock was purchased have proven our foresight in buying a large stock early in the Spring. Our customers will, now, benefit by the lowest figures which garments of this quality and reliability will be sold for. Men realize that by wearing good clothes that they are practicing economy and doing a patriotic duty.

Is Your Home Protected?

This matter of lightning rods should be a personal one with you.

Is your home protected? If not, can you afford to take the chances of its destruction?

You may have been spared up to this time, but give it a moment's thought and see whether it has not been through your good fortune rather than through your good management.

You have no assurance that lightning will continue to spare you.

It has visited your neighbors. Your turn may come next. If it should visit your home, it means certain destruction of property. It may mean sudden death to you or to some member of your family.

You cannot shift the responsibility. It is a matter for you to decide. Face the issue squarely and ask yourself the question whether you are playing the part of the prudent man in neglecting to guard your home and dear ones from the lightning stroke which may come at any time.

You have the highest assurances that can be given the Dodd System of lightning rods does give protection.

It is a reasonable system. The demonstrations put its effectiveness beyond question.

The position that the insurance companies have taken in the matter should have great weight with you.

Their interests are to preserve property. They have no personal interests in Dodd & Struthers.

Your interests are the same. You want to preserve your property—and your life and the lives of your family.

The insurance companies are encouraging you to protect your property.

But they cannot force you to act. It is a question for you and a question of NOW.

After awhile may be too late. Will you answer the question to your own best interest?

Then if in doubt, telephone to A. W. Walker & Son for a demonstration, and estimate on your buildings.

have a few tennis shoes left, in men's and boys' sizes, which are genuine bargains—ask to see them when you are in.

We also have good prices on a few summer shirts which ought to be sold before the heavier fall and winter shirts are put on the counter. Overalls and frocks are not exactly bargains now-a-days, but they are a saving for more expensive clothing and we have several weights and colors at very reasonable prices compared with the prices of cotton cloth and labor that goes into the manufacturing of such goods.

In groceries, we have a very good assortment of canned goods and it is a good time to get a few cans home for fall and winter use, as they are sure to be higher in prices later on. Coffee and tea in several grades, spices, mustard, Arm & Hammer and Three Crow Soda; this latter soda has some money in the packages. Also pure cream tartar, which is very high; and two kinds of cream tartar substitute, very nice and a great saving in cost. Flour and flour substitutes, a very good assortment to choose from.

NORTH WATERFORD

Albany Line

Two Seaside Buildings Burned Terrible loss by fire on Sawin Hill, Saturday Aug. 24th. The entire family of buildings owned and occupied by E. C. Henley on Sawin Hill, North Waterford were consumed by fire with all their contents with the exception of a part of the furniture.

Saturday morning a strong wind was blowing. The buildings were connected and a barn full of hay made such heat, and smoke, it was impossible to get near enough to do much. Many fine farming tools were lost. Four barrels of beans, maple syrup, sugar, about two hundred cans of fruit, the other valuables and treasures that cannot be replaced.

Mr. Henley is the mail carrier in North Waterford.

The buildings of Pearl Weymouth caught fire from E. C. Henley's buildings, the wind carrying the flames. The whole business was soon in flames and his, too, was burned to the ground with a greater part of the contents including the hay etc.

Mr. Weymouth had recently purchased the place and was making a cozy home for himself. He is a hard working young man and it seems very hard for him as he too is left homeless.

The buildings of Ingalls McAllister were directly in the path of the flames and caught fire but by prompt action time. Also the stable owned by Walter Lord caught fire twice but was fortunately put out. It was thought all of the buildings on the hill must go. But plenty of water saved the place.

No live stock was burned. There was a small insurance both set of buildings, we understand, but hardly a drop in the bucket as might be said compared with their loss.

The Henley buildings were near Albany Line. The fire didn't save a mouthful of food stuff of any description or a dish to cook in. They are living in a tent on the ground and taking their meals at the neighbors who invited them in.

Quite a number from Albany attended the 24th.

Mrs. R. B. Penfold and two children, 4-year and Jack from Great Diamond Island, visiting Mrs. Penfold's mother, Mrs. E. K. Shedd and sister, Mrs. Ernest Brown and her son, Roy and Walter Lord in their place. Her husband, Sgt. R. B. Penfold is at Fort McKim.

David McAllister who went to one of the Lewiston Hospitals, Saturday, is improved.

Leon Kimball lost a valuable horse purchased in the spring, acute indigestion and inflammation of the kidneys the cause. This is the second horse he has lost this year. It is a great loss to him in the busiest part of the year.

Chandler Merrill of North Norway came over to his place in Bisbetown, Saturday to cut his hay.

Peere Bryant and Fred Mosher are making some needed repairs on the Bisbetown school house.

Shackley by Thomas G. Goodwin et al. Dec. 9, 1864.

One of the books which a bibliomaniac handles reverently is the famous Geneva Bible, better known as the "Breches Bible." This name is due to the rendering of Genesis III, 7, where Adam and Eve are said to have "sewed fig tree leaves together and made themselves breeches." This had been the reading of the first English Bible, Wycliffe's version, but later translators had substituted the word "apron" for "breeches," and the Geneva Bible reverted to the original. The fact that only one edition of the Geneva version contained this sentence makes the limited number more precious to the book gatherer.

Second district voters are not being deluded by the specious democratic argument that the only way in which Maine can register a vote of confidence in the administration's war program is to elect a democratic congressional delegation. Maine voters are not ignorant; they are thinking men who read and follow the trend of public affairs, both locally, in the State and at Washington. They know who have supported the administration war measures and who have not; also they are somewhat familiar with the records of public men. Such an election cannot be misled by a mass of glittering generalities into rejecting men who have been tried and found true for the unknown quantity. In this district they will not be induced by such means to set aside Congressman White, whose earnest, loyal and steadfast support of every war measure is a matter of official record, for a man, whose official record shows by his vote he helped, immediately preceding the war, to defeat measures the purpose of which was to put this nation in a position to properly protect its citizens and their property.

When a democrat orator tells the people of this district that only by electing a democrat can they give a vote of confidence to President Wilson and assure him the support of war measures, they state that which cannot be substantiated by the records.

These records are the votes in Congress and the reports of speeches as published in the Congressional Record. They show that Republicans in Congress have been the more consistent supporters of the war measures, while the democrats in Congress have been the insistent opponents. Examination of these records show that 76 per cent. of the republicans have supported the war measures, whereas but 72 per cent. of the democratic membership have done so.

Is this not a sufficient answer to the democratic claim that election of their candidates will be an endorsement of the administration's war policy whereas to elect republicans will not?

But there is another side to this matter which is worthy of consideration and is illuminating in the extreme. Who are the republicans who have opposed the war measures? Think that over. When you have done so you will find they are the fellows, the small fry, if you please; men whom are seldom heard of. The big men have jumped into the collar, put their shoulders to the wheel and lifted hard for the successful prosecution of the war. Men such as Mann, Cannon, Longworth, Leavitt, Knutson, Mason, in the house, Gallinger, Lodge, Weeks, Wadsworth, Curtis, Smoot, Harden, Johnson, New, Watson, Fall and Penrose in the senate have led the fight for the measure. How was it on the democratic side? The opposite. There we find the leading democrats opposing the war measure. We find Champ Clark leaving the speakers chair to go upon the floor of the house to oppose one of the chief war measures which Pres. Wilson had asked for; we find Claude Kitchin, chairman of the ways and means committee, opposing war measures and also Chairman Dent of the house military affairs committee taking the same attitude. It is a matter of very recent history how Chairman Dent has not always risen to the support of the President. He has been delaying action the new man mover bill, by holding it in the committee. In the senate it is the same; democratic leaders have opposed the war measures. Reed of Missouri, Stone of the same State, Vandaman of Mississippi, Eardwick of Georgia, all leaders on their side of the chamber have been constant opponents of the war measures. Is there anything in this which supports the democratic contention that the only way that Maine can write its endorsement of the war program is by electing democrats? We think not.

Another thing which the democrats are making considerable talk about is the matter of acting in a non-partisan manner; that politics should be adjourned, to use the President's favorite phrase. In support of this they call attention to the fact that in 1898, Reed, Hanna and other republican leaders urged the same thing, that Pres. McKinley might have the full support of congress in prosecuting the war against Spain. As usual, the democrats do not, in this instance, tell the whole story. They depend upon half truths to make their point.

It is true that republican leaders did in 1898, urge upon the democrats to forsake partisan politics and support the president as a matter of patriotism. It is also true that the democrats did not respond. As a party they ignored the call to patriotism—shibboleth of patriotism, Champ Clark at that time designated it—and voted against the war measures.

The first great war measure, after the declaration of war, which Congress was called upon to enact was a war revenue bill. It was a bill prepared by Nelson Dingley of Maine's second district, then chairman of the ways and means committee of the house, and reported by that committee. Did the democrats of Congress aid in its passage and support that bill? They did not. The record shows that but six democrats in the house and six in the senate voted for the bill.

And that is not all. The records show something more. They show that these twelve men were read out of the democrat party for so voting, for adjourning politics and voting according to the dictates of patriotism and the love of country. And the records show further that the men who read them from the party were led by Champ Clark of Missouri, now speaker of the house, and James Hamilton Lewis, the same Senator Lewis who is to-day so fearful that a republican may forget his patriotic duty; the same James Hamilton Lewis who, if a republican member of the senate questions a word or sentence in any measure having the president's endorsement, denounces him as a traitor to his country and a friend of Germany; the same Senator Lewis who went to New Hampshire and Indiana and Wisconsin and told the voters that the only way in which the unity of the land and the support of the administration could be assured was by electing democrats; the same Senator Lewis, whose advice in those states was ignored and laid aside.

The records, not only of this war, but of the Spanish-American war, as related, clearly demonstrate the weakness and the fallacy of the only claim which the democracy has put forward why it should, this year, be given the support of the people of Maine and the second district.

NO SUNDAY AUTOING

The Fuel Administration has called upon the public in states east of the Mississippi River to cease the using of all classes of automobiles with a few named exceptions, motorcycles and motor boats on Sundays, until further notice, as a gasoline conservation measure.

Only voluntary compliance with the letter and spirit of the request will prevent the issuance of a mandatory order prohibiting the use of gasoline on Sundays. It was declared by the Fuel Administration. Automobiles for hire are included in the curtailment program.

Motor vehicles to which the restrictions do not apply were announced as follows:
Tractors and motor trucks employed in actual transportation of freight.

Vehicles of physicians used in performance of professional duties.

Ambulance, fire apparatus, police patrol wagons, undertakers' wagons and conveyances used for funerals.

Railway equipment using gasoline.

Repair outfits employed by telephone and public service companies.

Motor vehicles on errands of necessity in rural communities where transportation by steam or electricity is not available.

The action was taken by the Fuel Administration, it was stated, to meet a threatened shortage of gasoline for shipment overseas, created by increased domestic demand and extensive military operations in France.

SUGAR "SMUGGLERS" FACE HEAVY FINE JAIL SENTENCES

Canada Plans Rigid Enforcement of New Sugar Regulations—Customs Officers Will Act Against Violators

By crossing the border, may purchase in large amounts, are emphatically denied by the United States Food Administration.

The Canadian Food Board recently issued a statement calling for a reduction of Canadian sugar consumption to one and one-half pounds per person per month—half a pound below the "honor ration" requested in this country by the United States Food Administration.

All regulations governing the use or holding of sugar will be rigidly enforced, the Canadian Food Board has declared. It is taking strict measures to prevent hoarding, in most cases imposing a jail sentence as well as a heavy fine.

Manufacturers are strictly curtailed in their use of sugar and householders are prohibited from purchasing in quantities which would warrant consumption of more than the requested allowance.

Citizens of this country would be running a serious risk if they attempted to purchase sugar in Canada. Although restrictions there are placed upon the purchaser rather than upon the retail dealer, severe penalties are provided for attempted exportation to the United States without an individual export license from the Canadian War Trade Board.

which will grant export licenses only in cases which meet with the approval of this government. Supplemental action along this line has been taken by the United States War Trade Board which has prohibited importation without an individual import license.

Persons attempting to bring sugar from Canada to this country would be faced with the possibility of heavy fines and jail sentences should they be apprehended by the customs authorities of either country.

THE COMMON TABLE

To the average American the question of food has been mainly one of purchasing from the nearest grocer and butcher what appetite and income dictate. Where that food comes from, how much there is of it in the world, how universal its consumption, has been none of his concern.

He could get what he wanted if he could pay for it and nothing else mattered.

BEEF RESTRICTIONS REMOVED

The extreme drought in the great cattle country in the Southwest and certain states in the Northwest, is endangering the meat herds in these cattle producing sections. As an immediate result, the present cattle runs are 50 per cent heavier than in the corresponding period of last year.

The larger part of this stock is below the most desirable market weights and would normally remain on the ranges until it has attained a larger growth. So far as is possible these cattle are being moved to sections where conditions of grass, grain and water are more favorable.

The surplus must, however, be handled.

The Food Administration therefore is for the present releasing the meat restrictions. This is about one month earlier than was originally contemplated. It is desired, however, to continue the same careful regard for economy in beef and in all essential foods as a measure to safeguard the future. The desire of the Food Administration is to induce a preference in favor of the lighter weights of cattle, of which we have an abnormal surplus. This will bring about conservation of the heavier cattle needed for our soldiers.

SUGAR KITCHEN CARD

Every housewife throughout Maine and every other state knows there is a sugar shortage. Perhaps she has gone to the grocery store in a hurry to give a 25 pound order of sugar for canning and preserving and has been told she must sign a certificate.

Or perhaps she has asked for a five or 10 pound bag of granulated sugar for cooking and table use and has had stingly meted out to her a one or two pound bag.

"Do tell us, then, exactly how much sugar we may have and help us to make that go round," is the universal cry. And that is exactly what the Food Administration wants to do.

Every territory, down to the smallest town or hamlet, has a local Food Administrator who is issuing the national rulings as fast as they come to him from Washington or from Orono. The present maximum sugar ration for household use is two pounds per person per month. This means one ounce per day or about 2 1/2 level teaspoons. Put that on your kitchen card where you can see it from time to time. Do remember that our soldiers need sugar more than we do and that their supply must be saved in American homes.

If you want metal for babbety, we have it and will sell it at a reasonable price.

Bisbee town

Fell Into the Cellar Annie Hazleton stayed with her sister, Mrs. Rilla Marston, Monday night and Tuesday, who met with quite an accident at about six o'clock Monday night. She stepped in the cellar way on the broad stair with a dish in one hand and a large pitcher of milk in the other, when the whole stair gave away and let her fall to a distance of nine feet, striking on a cement cellar bottom.

On the stair were four stone jars, a glass jar of syrup, pail of cream and a tin of butter. Her husband heard the fall and rushed to her assistance and found her among the broken ware. He carried her part of the way out the bulk head and at last got her into the house by her help, then called for neighbors and a doctor, who came and dressed her wounds. She was out and back that was hurt very badly. Fortunately no bones were broken and at this writing is as comfortable as can be expected, although her back is very painful. She sits up part of the time at this writing. Lillian McAllister is doing the housework.

Came to this Woman after Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to Restore Her Health

Ellensburg, Wash.—"After I was married I was not well for a long time and a good deal of the time was not able to go about. Our greatest desire was to have a child in our home and one day my husband came back from town with a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and wanted me to try it. It brought relief from my troubles.

There are women everywhere who long for children in their homes yet are denied this happiness on account of some functional disorder which in most cases would readily yield to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Such women should not give up hope until they have given this wonderful medicine a trial, and for special advice write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of 40 years experience is at your service.

We will be very glad to explain to you the formulae of any of these.

Soldiers' Letters

The following letters were written by Jacob A. Klein to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Klein of Norway and sister, Dora.

My dear parents:

I am here at the front now, having a great time, observing the many different things that happen. One instance in particular I shall never forget is when the Boche sent over gas shells along with his 2, 3 and 6 inch shells, which certainly made some noise. This bombardment took place early this morning (1:30 A. M.). Of course we are always on the watch for this kind of stuff, so all of us got our gas masks on O. K. We were in gas over three hours. Believe me it was noisier than any of the things I ever observed. As yet I haven't seen a Boche but when I do there will be one less Hun in the German army.

I am fast becoming a Frenchman now as I am among them most of the time. What little French I did take in college is very handy to me now. The French are very kind to us and help us in every way possible. Lately we have been having rainy weather but this afternoon it has cleared up quite warm and shiny.

One thing my parents remember not to worry about me. I am just as safe as in the States. We are getting plenty to eat and a splendid place to sleep. We sleep under ground now about twelve feet deep. This of course is a great shelter for us when the shells explode.

I can't begin to tell you how half what I would like to as the censor don't allow it, as you know. I hope some day in the near future to tell you all the many happenings we boys have and will go through. My love to you all dear folks and don't worry, your loving son, Jake.

Sunday, July 21, 1918.

Dear folks:

I received your letter O. K. to-day with Bess' picture in it. Was much pleased with it. Undoubtedly you are anxious to know that I am in the best of health, after driving the Huns for over ten miles. You probably have seen by the papers where we made this big drive. Will write you again soon, don't worry about me. I have written several letters to you and you will get them O. K. in time. I never have received your letters, but I will send me any for its useless. I never will get them. Must close now with love to you 'always. Don't worry. Love. Son Jacob Astor.

Sunday, July 21, 1918.

Dear Father and Mother:

The fourth of July dawned bright and fair, giving promise of a beautiful day, and it was a day never to be forgotten by such of us as were in that most beautiful city in the world on that date. Paris was in a holiday mood and nothing was too good for the American Soldiers.

We left the barracks, where we were quartered, just outside of Paris proper, in the little suburb of Boulogne, at eight o'clock in the morning and paraded through the principal streets of Paris, by beautiful monuments and public buildings and through long lines of people who cheered and showered us with flowers until our path was a carpet of flowers. Never before have I seen such a celebration, much less taken part in one. The streets were filled with people so that we were just a narrow lane through which we marched. People filled the balconies and windows overlooking our line of march and the big squares were filled.

I saw several of my friends who had been wounded and they certainly are being treated fine by both the French and American authorities and wounded American soldiers rates anything he wants from the French people.

While we were parading American aviators flew above us on our line of march, viewing with the parade, the interest of the people as they looked the long and swooping down and up again, sometimes almost touching the tops of the trees along the boulevard.

We arrived back at the barracks about two o'clock, July fifth, and we certainly made the most of our time while there. It seemed rather strange, such a beautiful city and a foreign tongue after being in the sticks so long, but my, how we did enjoy ourselves. I went to the Y. M. C. A. hotel and had a bath and ate supper there for six francs. The Y. M. C. A. Soldiers' and Sailors' Club and the Cross are doing great work and there in Paris they are the most reasonable places at which to trade, especially cats.

I spent most of my time walking around over the city seeing what sights I could in the short time we had. I was there just long enough to want to stay a good long time. It is a city which does its business in its most artistic and historical spots, in fact art and business are mixed there, in a greater degree than in any city I have ever been in. Washington, D. C., comes the nearest, but that is a "petit Paris" compared with the original. It is no wonder it is spoken of as the playground of the world in peace times.

This time of year the weather here in northern France is wonderful. The days are warm and the nights cool, making a delightful weather for camping out which we are doing now.

You must get the New York Herald for July 5th. It will describe the fête in Paris much better than I have, but you should have heard them cheer the American soldiers. Every company which was in the battle around Chateau Thierry and the Belleau woods around June 6th, was represented and I was one of the lucky ones from my company.

I am sending my love and best wishes. Dear Father and Mother:

Imagine a picturesque little village with its chateaus and well kept gardens and vineyards, situated in a most beautiful valley, with a wide placid river running through it. Most of the civilian population have moved away and the entire township is peopled by soldiers. It is quiet here and nothing disturbs its tranquility, save the distant boom of the big guns and now and then the rat-tat-tat of a machine gun battle between our planes or the boom of the anti-aircraft guns. This last however, happens seldom, as the American aviators have got the supremacy of the air in this sector and German balloons and aeroplanes keep pretty well under cover.

We have a fine Y. M. C. A. here, and last night a good entertainment was very successfully staged. As you will notice, the Y. M. C. A. furnishes us with writing paper and wherever possible, with tables to write. It is located here in what was an old inn and it is a very pretty location.

July 22, 1918.

Dear Father and Mother:

By the time you get this note, you will have read in the newspapers an account of the big drive of which we were a part. The time, date and place I must leave out but on the morning of a certain day in many days ago, we went over the top and faced the machine gun fire and bursting shells for the rest of that day and night and morning, when we were relieved.

I brought in a German officer and private after we gained our objective and afterwards while on duty, I ran across two machine gunners and another man and myself brought them in.

All afternoon and evening my duties kept me on the go and continually exposed to machine gun and shell fire but someone had their arms around me and I came through with just a slight scratch on my right hand which does not inconvenience me in the least. Bill Haggett got wounded by a sniper while standing right beside me. He was one of the old bunch which the Quantico last fall of which only a few are now left. However, most of the boys were only slightly wounded and will get well soon. I cannot write much tonight, but will close

July 1, 1918.

Dear Mother and Father:

At last a chance to write to you again. I have been receiving your letters pretty regularly. The last one, June 9th, I received yesterday.

I have, not written very often in the last two months as we have moved pretty frequently and have had very little chance to write.

I received two letters from Aunt Ella yesterday dated May 23rd and 30th. In my last letter to her I gave a description of some of the dugouts we were living in and Aunt Ella could not understand how we could get fresh air into them. We are not troubled with fresh air problems as we live out of doors all the time and although some of our dugouts have been wet and musty, the rats and other animals have bothered us much more than the mud and any kind of a hole seems a sure thing when the shells are bursting, for then you are safe from everything except a direct hit and even then if you are in a good one, you have got a chance.

Where we are now is some different from where we were last spring when I first commenced to write you about the shells. That was trench warfare and the positions there were well protected with barbed wire entanglements and a system of reserve trenches to back up the outposts; while on this front which is a mobile one, we dig in wherever we happen to be as a protection against shells and where the front is stationary for a while, some pretty good dugouts are generally made. Well, I am back behind the lines again, safe and sound, with nary a scratch and feeling fine. I found some good yesterday and we made up a good bunk under the trees and enjoyed a good sleep most of the day and all last night. And now I must close with love and best wishes to you both.

Well I must close now and go to work. Send me an Advertiser if you happen to get one, love to all Clarence.

The following letters were written by Clarence McGown of Berlin, N. H. to his mother. He is in the 148th Infantry, 37th Division, A. E. F. McGown has relatives and friends in Waterford and vicinity.

July 2, 1918.

Dear Marm: Just a few lines to let you know that I am still alive and feeling pretty good. I don't know where I'm going but I'm on my way. I was sea sick two or three days but feel better now. We have had fine weather so far. How is everything at home? How is the garden? I wish I could see you all and hope we will be home soon. I don't see any papers now so can't keep tabs on the war. Did you get my pictures? I got a letter from Annie just before I left camp. I'm not allowed to say much but will tell you all some day. It is raining a little to-day. I am glad Dana and Inez are going to move back to Gorham it will be better to be altogether than all scattered around this summer. It don't seem much like it used to it don't seem as though it could be July. There is so much going on with me the time passes quick. I haven't time to write to everyone so pass this address on so they can write to me. I will call this off for this time. With lots of love, Clarence McGown.

July 18, 1918.

Dear Marm: Just a few lines to-night to let you know where I am. I started a letter when I was on the boat. I am some where in France. It is some place you don't think I would like to live here. The houses are all built of stone and the streets are all paved. You would laugh if you could see the railroads here—little engines just about like the narrow gauge but standard road bed and passenger cars are about half as large as ours at home. Our Company rode in third class car three days eight of us, and all the room we had was about 4 x 6—seats running length wise, you can imagine eight of us with our packs in a space like that. At night we piled up like a lot of logs, but we had a nice rifle. We crossed a lot of pretty country every field was planted to something wheat or oats or other garden truck and all the gardens looked fine.

The women and children do the work. We have quite a time to trade with the people, hardly any of them talk any English and we can't talk much French. We are near enough to the firing line so if the wind is right we can hear the cannon. Well, for myself, I am feeling fine, my jaw is about the same. I can't imagine what that trouble can be. I am working pretty hard training but it is good work and I like it. I can hardly imagine myself over in France. I'm not a mite homesick and some days I won't even think of home but I hope to be able to go back some time. General Pershing said he was going to the trenches for the last time last Monday and he would have us boys either in Hell, Heaven or Hoboken by Xmas and I hope it is so.

Well, I will close for this time give my love to all the folks I don't get time to write to all. You can send this around hoping to see you all before long I will close with love, Clarence McGown.

Letter from Louis Henry, Winlock Division of the French Army to his sister Mrs. Alfred J. Dyer of Norway.

July 29, 1918.

My Dear Sister: Just a few lines to let you know that I am in the best of health and I hope my letter will find you and the little ones in the same old way. For the present moment we are in the lines and there is a lull, but I am assure you that on the 23rd we attacked on a five miles front, we captured three villages and the German losses were three thousand.

My own battalion made about four hundred prisoners and thirty machine guns, it was great.

You ought to see them doing "Kamrad" anyway it went alright. We are having lovely weather. I hope it is the same over your way. I had a letter from Alfred. I suppose you know that he has been hurt in the foot and leg, now he can have a good rest for they need it. Had a letter from father. As is fine but worries a good deal on account of Alfred and I. In about another month I shall be having another leave to Blighty I can assure you I am looking forward to it. I hope that we are going to be relieved soon for it makes twenty days we have been in the lines, and I am lying to have a bath and shave.

What do you think of the war. I reckon now that the chance has turned on our side. I knew where Alfred was and his division was where the battle is raging now and he certainly was lucky to escape with so slight injuries.

One's Own Fault.

People influence us who have no business to do it simply because we have neglected to train ourselves to attend to our own affairs.—A. E. Winship.

SOUTH ALBANY

Notes on the Fire

About 4:30 Saturday the cry went over the wire that Elmer Henley's house was burning. The buildings were on a hill in sight of many places for miles to the north, east and south and the wire carried the message to those who could not see and help was soon at hand from everywhere. It seemed. Autos carried load after load but too late to save the buildings which were entirely consumed.

Mr. Henley had his hay all cut and in the barn with considerable of the last year's crop, also, with the exception of some 8 or 10 tons which were stacked across the road. It is estimated somewhere about 50 tons were burned with a big double wagon and all the riding wagons, sleighs, sleds, harnesses, wheel harrow and tools too numerous to mention.

There were ten or more bushels of beans, 1-2 barrel of pork, about 100 cans of fruit, nearly a 1-2 cwt. of maple sugar and a number of gallons of maple syrup of his own making last spring and all groceries and everything else eatable in the house.

Someone found a big pan of bread risen, all ready for baking and that was carried to a place of safety and baked at one of the neighbor's; also a churn just ready to be worked over and that was carried out safely. Nearly all the furniture, a large new cooking range, piano, dining table and so forth which were in the lower story were saved.

The little twin boys have only what they had on and the baby only a little shirt and the older children have but very little except what they had on as their clothes were up stairs and the flames from the burning barn were blown in through the open windows and entrance was impossible.

With true Yankee grit, Mr. Henley and wife have procured Lin Flint's jungle show tent and before noon Sunday it was all up and they were preparing to go to housekeeping in it. Fortunately he has a large garden and with potatoes, corn, beans, etc., and his cows for milk, butter and cream, they are ready to start in again.

There was no live stock in the barn with the exception of one calf a few days old and Lovell Henley made a dash in through the flames and came out with the calf in his arms all right.

For The Woman Who Wants Assured Fall Styles Early

An Advance Fall Showing of Wooltex Coats

Coat and suit buying is a problem no matter what mere husbands and brothers say about the pleasures of shopping—especially when one wants the new styles early. It is more so for the woman who wants to make the most serviceable purchase of her coat and suit from a purse already heavily taxed.

But Wooltex has helped us solve the problem for many of the women in this vicinity—especially for her who wants to be among the first to appear in the new styles and still have a garment that is stylish all season—so many coats and suits, you know, are in style today and out tomorrow.

Assured styles are created in the Wooltex Fifth Avenue Studio. They know what styles will remain the fashion all season. Combined with this "safety" in style is Wooltex quality of workmanship which keeps the garments looking "just like new" all season.

This Advance Style Showing will help you solve your clothes questions. There is no better time than now to select your Fall Coat.

WOOLTEX COATS $27.50, $29.75, $34.75, $39.75, $43.50, $49.50.
